NO SERIOUS CAUSE FOR ALARM.

We are not among those who seen to think that the state of California has a legitimate grievance against Miss Emery for choosing to marry a Japanese. It is very probable that she is a young lady of poor taste and it is also probable that she might have lone better-or worse!

There are so many misfits in man riage that one more added to the deplorable list need not cause us disouragement, nor excite us to Jere miads. If there was any reasonable probability that the example of the young lady would be followed by her to be enabled to say, is not the case.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

April 11th, 1909.

(Capyright, 1908, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D. Easter Lesson. I Cor. xv:12-28. Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. I Cor. xv:20.

Verses 12-13.—Does the doctrine of the resurrection of the body rest upon revelation or upon reason?

Providing the soul is immortal is it or not, of material importance whether the body is raised or not?

If there is no resurrection of dead, it follows as Paul here states that Christ is not risen; but is the converse true, that if Christ is risen then all human beings will necessar ily be resurrected?

It seems that some in Corinth de-nied the resurrection of the dead in the sense that there is no life after death, now if that were true, much would there be left in Chris-

Verses 18-19 - How is it that all men instinctively believe in the im-mortality of their departed friends, and expect to meet them again? It was doubtless true in Paul's day that if there was no immortality Christians were of all men most miserable, because, they were then de spised, imprisoned and put to death; but is the same true today? Is not Christ's religion now a grand thing for this world, even if death did end all? Verse 20-What is the chief evidence of the truth of Christianity? What is the proof that Jesus did rise from the dead? (See Matt. xxvi: 16-18: Mark xvi:14: Luke xxiv:36-38; John xx:4,5,14,26; xxi:4; Acts i:3,13,30

Is the fact of the resurrection Jesus to be proved by evidence, like any other fact, and is there any other Istoric fact better attested?

Why was it, when Jesus was cruck Why was it, when Jesus was char-fied that His disciples were a dispir-ited band, having lost heart, and go-ing back to their former occupation, and what was it afterwards that put new life in them, and made them the most courageous men that ever lived? (This question must be answered in Writing by members of the Club.)
What became the prominent the

Bavarian Distances

In the Bayarian highlands signposts along the roads, instead of stating the number of miles or kilometers to the various villages, give the amount of time which the average pedestrian will supposedly take to traverse the dis-tance. This is merely an official expression of the very general custom o the peasants in the region, who invari-ably tell inquirers on the roads not how far it is to a place, but how long it takes to get there. Not only but they make the system still more unsatisfactory to the stranger by a lit-tle additional eccentricity of their own. For instance, one asks, "How far is it to Oberammergau?"

"A small half hour," will be the answer, or perhaps "A good half hour" or "A big half hour."

Which is puzzling until the stranger learns that a "small half hour" means twenty-five minutes, "a good half hour" thirty minutes, "a big half hour" thirty-five minutes, "a small three-quarters of an hour" forty minutes,

"Goes" of Whisky.
Forty "goes" of whisky had been consumed by the licensed victualer. and still he was sober—at least so he told the city coroner. "Goes" is a com-mon term in this connection, but it lacks the full appropriateness to the attnation of its Scottlah equivalent in the story of another big drink told by Dean Ramsay. It was at a party near Arbroath, held to celebrate the reconciliation of two farmers who had long ciliation of two farmers who had long been enemies. When the party at last broke up, at a morning hour, the pe-nurious lady of the house, who had not been able to sleep a wink for anxiety, called over the stairs to the servant: "How many bottles of whisky have they used, Betty?"

"I dinna ken, mem," was the answer. "but they've druncken six gang o' wa

Expert Figuring.

A well known actor tells a story of a ne'er-do-well in a little New England town where he has often spent his summers. "I was walking down the main street one day," said he, "when I saw old Slias grinning from ear to ear. I hardly thought that he was that glad to see me. So after speaking to him I said: 'Why the smile speaking to ulm a that won't come off, Silas? What has happened to make you so happy this morning? Twe been a gittin married this mornin, was the unexpected reply. 'Married! You?' I exclaimed. ply. 'Married! You?' I exciaimed. 'Why. Silas, what on earth have you done that for? You know you can't even support yourself as it is. 'Wasl,' said Slias, 'you see, it's this way: I ken purty near support myself, an' I kind of figured out that she could finish up the job.'"—Argonaut.

Origin of Old Glory. In the reminiscences of Lord Ronald Gower is found a story of the origin of the stars and stripes.

The "star spangled banner" of the American republic had its origin from an old brass on the floor of an ancient church in Northamptonshire. The brass covers the tomb of one Robert Washington and is dated 1622. On it appears the Washington coat of arms, consisting of three stars, with bars or stripes beneath them. On the first day, of the new year, 1776, the thirteen united colonies raised a standard at Washington's headquarters.

This introduced the stripes of the This introduced the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew on a blue ground in the corner. In 1777 the crosses were replaced by stars, as the Declaration. Independence rendered Deciration of Independence relatives the retention of the English element unnecessary and inconvenient. In this adopting the arms of his ancestors as his own distinctive badge Washington no doubt intended the flag merely as a no doubt Intended the flag merely as a private signal for his own personal following, but it was at once adopted as a national embiem. Probably there is not another case in the world's history in which the private arms of an obscure family have attained such worldwide eminence and repute.

The Bank Could Stand It.

A western lawyer tells of a remark-able instance of the convincing power of feminine logic as evidenced by an occurrence which he once witnessed while standing on the edge of a crowd that was besieging the doors of a bank supposed to be on the point of sus pending payment.

A conversation between a rosy cheek-ed Irishwoman and ber husband, who were near the lawyer, at once attracted his attention. "Mary," said the man, "we must push up, so ye can dhraw your money

"But I don't want to draw it out, Roger," replied Mary placidly. "Don't ye know, Mary." persisted the usband, "that they'll lose your monhusband, "that they'll lose your mon-ey for ye if ye don't hurry t' dhraw it

"An' shure, Roger," retorted Mary, 'ain't they better able to lose it than Roger was stunned by this unan swerable logic, and after a few more words the two withdrew. Fortunate-ly the bank survived its difficulties, and no depositor lost a cent.

A Purse For the Bride

Some brides may be inclined to re-gret that the old marriage custom of the dow purse has fallen into disuse. It was the custom of the bridegroom to fill a purse with a goodly sum of money and present it to the bride on the wedding day as the price of the purchase of her person. It sounds like slavery, like the buying of goods and chattels, yet the bride had a nice little sum of money for her own use. Some of the oldest inhabitants of Cumberland may remember a similar custom in that county. The bridge Cumberland may remember a similar custom in that county. The bride-groom provided himself with a num-ber of gold and silver pieces, and at the words "with all my worldly goods I thee endow" he handed the clergy-man his fee and poured the other coins into a handkerchief held out for that nursoes by the bride. In other that purpose by the bride. In other places, again, the bride had the right to ask her husband for a gift of money or property on the day after the wed-ding, and he was bound in honor to grant the request.—London Answers.

Sixty Kinds of Bananas.

To most persons in the temperate sones a banana is a banana. But the truth is that there are over sixty known varieties of the fruit, with as great or greater variation in character as in the different kinds of apples. Hawaii is said to have something over forty distinct varieties of the fruit, most of which have been introduced by the whites. Some of these are of extremely delicate and delicious flavor. while other kinds are used, if at all, while other kinds are used, if at all, only when cooked in various ways. There is scarcely a city house lot or country "kuleana" or homestead which does not have a clump or two of bananas, which grow with practically no care, new plants or suckers shooting up to replace the ones which have fruited and been removed .-- Los An

The Bee's Market Basket. Every bee carries his market basket around his hind legs. Any one examining the body of the bee through a microscope will observe that on the hind legs of the creature there is a fringe of stiff hairs on the surface, the hairs approaching each other at the tips, so as to form a sort of cage. His Business Ability.

In the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter when he was sitting around smoking his family came so near starvation that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not consid-erate enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage, He hired some of the neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood and paid them with half the pork and half the flour.—Lippin-

China has four state established re ligions, and in each the emperor exer sacerdotal functions year the emperor as "son of heaven" worships before the tablet of Shang Ti or supreme heaven in accordance with the ancient imperial monotheism.

Twice a year he burns incense before the tablets of his ancestors in accordance with Confucianism. Twice a year he sacrifices to the gods of Taosering and twice a year to the gods of Tab-ism and twice a year to the image of Buddha. The ancient and primitive religion of China is monotheistic, but this direct worship was regarded as too sublime for the people, so that it came reserved for the emperor alon as the "son of heaven" and as priest of the nation. The people on their part worshiped their ancestors, and it was this ancestral religion which Confucius identified himself with and re formed. The old superstitions rejected by Confucius were absorbed by Taoism which is polytheistic and the re ligion of the populace. Then Bud-dhism came into China about 65 A. D. and, like the other three religions, be-came state supported and state en-

Squeezed the Squeezers.

It is said that when Mr. Yerkes began to make money some of the banks from which he had borrowed thought to "squeeze" him by demanding in-stant repayment or a large considera-tion for further time. He was invited to call on one of these "bankers" and there met the others. Their demand was made, and their victim seemed at their mercy. They did not, however, know the resourcefulness of Mr.

Yorkes, who retailated by remarking:
"Well, I owe a lot to all the banks here, and I'll just publish a statement tomorrow in the papers, giving the full amounts and stating my inability to pay. This will make such a run on the banks that they will soon be as broke as I should, and therefore I shall not be the only sufferer."

The "squeezers" recognized the truth of this and so withdrew their demand. Mr. Yerkes, however, refused to with draw his threat unless they lent him another $50,000. They did so.
